Cover

"It was an incredible experience—impossible to put into words," says the Rev. Virgil Elizondo (B.S. '57) of his meeting with Pope John Paul II. Our cover commemorates the pope's September visit to San Antonio, that once-in-a-lifetime happening that thrilled so many of our alumni, including hundreds who were involved in the arrangements. The photo was taken at San Fernando Cathedral, where Elizondo is the rector. His long association with St. Mary's has included teaching courses in theology and philosophy from time to time.

Inside Cover

- 1. Robert B. Aguirre (B.B.A. '75) and his wife, Betsy, greet the pope. As project manager for the San Antonio papal visit, Aguirre worked a solid 12 months on countless details, a task he viewed as "a mission—a crusade."
- 2. Dr. Grace Luther, Marianist sister and clinical director of the St. Mary's Family Life Center, greeting the pope last summer in Rome. She also met the pope at an audience with her Marianist sisters.
- 3. Other Marianists graced with a papal audience in Rome include the Rev. David Fleming, center, former St. Mary's chancellor and board chairman, and Brother Robert Wood, former sociology faculty, now stationed in Rome.

Editor's Note

With this issue, Gold & Blue has been modernized to make the magazine more visually attractive and easier to read. A questionnaire asking for opinions will go to a random selection of alumni. Please help us improve the magazine by sending back your comments.

Easier to digest also is the annual report for the year ending May 31, 1987, presented in this issue as the university president's personal summary of the year's progress.

Rich history stretching back long before many of our alumni were born is an important part of St. Mary's. Last spring, university colleagues got together in the Pecan Grove to share their memories with the campus community. Check out their anecdotes on page 2.

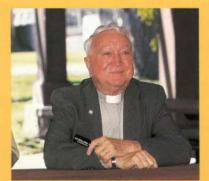

Contrasted with the old days, a list of what these-days employees most value in the workplace is reviewed on page 4 by the university's director of personnel.

Ever widening the search for prospective students, St. Mary's admissions counselors now personally visit South America, Asia and Europe. On page 18, Candace Kuebker gives us a glimpse of her recruiting trip to Europe.—Sylvia A. McLaren

St. Mary's Remembers

The Reu John G. Leles

The Early Years

The Rev. John G. Leies, current law school chaplain: He recalls when the school was upgraded from a college to a university. The year was 1927. "Cattle grazed in front of the school and chickens gathered around the pond where the statue of the Blessed Virgin now sits. The school consisted of two buildings-St. Louis Hall, now known as the Administration Building, and Chaminade Tower. Culebra Street was then only 12 feet wide and ideal for hiking, as long as you stayed out of the grass and away from the rattlesnakes. Ground was broken for the gym in 1928, but it wasn't built until 15 years or so later, due to the Depression. Students were rounded up to shovel gravel for the school grounds from a rock quarry on Culebra."

ere are some of the comments of faculty and staff, introduced as some of the wisest and most colorful storytellers, who shared their favorite, funniest and close-to-the-heart St. Mary's memories at a brownbag session in the Pecan Grove. The session was sponsored by the Marianist Forum in an effort to foster a continuing spirit of unity and family on the campus. To set the mood, take a short trivia test to see if you remember:

- * Registration with Brother Tom Treadaway.
- * Tuition at $12.50 an hour.
- * St. Mary's football team and the name of the coach who became the country's president.
- * Give yourself an "A" if you started to hum The Bells of St. Mary's halfway through the questions.

Ken Carey

Man on a Mission: Kosub

Ken Carey, retired political science professor: "I came here when Elmer Kosub was the oldest living senior and playing baseball. I caught one of his games where he was put in as a pinch-hitter. He hit a home run over the trees, ran around the bases, then—mission accomplished—jumped in his car and drove off to work."

Going Batty

Brother Andrew Cremer, English professor: "I go back to 1932. Everything has changed except the bats. Brother Frank Becker, a mad sort of genuis, tried to get rid of them with ultrasonic sound, but only succeeded in driving all of us from the campus. It finally worked. The bats disappeared, but now they've made their home with us again."

Brother Andy Cremer

Brother Knows Best

Dr. Lee Brown, chairman, History Department, on his student memories of the celebrated Brother Tom Treadaway: "I walked into the Registrar's Office and said to this little man peering out from under his visor, 'I'd like to major in history and minor in Spanish.' 'No, you'll major in history and minor in political science,' he told me. I didn't see him again for four and a half months, but when I came in to get counseling for the spring semester, he called me by my first name, knew what classes I had taken, and my grades. He was truly a genius. Back in '57 tuition was $12.50 per hour."

Bob O'Conno

On Getting Hitched

Bob O'Connor; Theology
Department: A favorite memory is the day the Theology Department secretary accepted his marriage proposal. Now, four children later, the Chicago native recalls he honestly expected to see hitching posts instead of parking meters on Texas streets when he arrived here in the '60s.

Candace Kuebker, Admissions, left, and Rose Mary Droke, Carcer Planning & Placement, share a laugh as they recall their favorite Rattler Tales.

At Your Convenience

Brother Rodney Novosad, director, Testing Services, and former dorm director:
He remembers the year that Chaminade Hall students, stimulated by the Christmas spirit, "borrowed" 75 Christmas trees from a local convenience store. He cherishes a plaque that fun-loving students presented to him in recognition of his efforts to have root beer declared the official drink on campus. It shows the Blessed Mother mounted on a root beer bottle.

Hair Raisers

English Department-Dr. Rose Marie Cutting: the night a tree in her backyard caught fire during an English Department party. Sister Ann Semel: non-Catholic students' perception of a nun in the classroom. "I still have a note I received from a student who thanked me for not living up to his expectations. He obviously had heard horror stories about nuns as teachers. It seems he had visions of my rapping his knuckles with a ruler, or having him kneel in a corner. I treasure that letter."

Rattler Reverie

Elmer Konul

Elmer Kosub, former baseball coach: One version of how "Rattler" became the school mascot, he says, may be because the football players had to kick the rattlesnakes off the field before they could use it. He recalls: being a student on the GI Bill; that when the gym still had a dirt floor, trapeze artists from Ringling Bros. Circus used it as a practice arena—the rings are still there, above the drop ceiling; the then dean of students bellowing over the public address system, "This is a university, not a ranch," as a warning to students, forbidden to wear jeans or cowboy bootsthey were sent home to change; legends handed down about the football team and its 1916 coach, Dwight D. Eisenhower, then a young lieutenant stationed at Fort Sam Houston.

How St. Mary's Rates as an Employer

by Mary Braley Director of Personnel

hat kind of benefits do workers value most? It's a question American business is studying intensely, partly because of declining productivity and the influence of Japan's womb-to-tomb care of workers—a management style designed to foster loyalty and improve productivity.

In a series of articles discussing American employer-employee relations, the national daily newspaper USA Today reports on employees' ratings of ''great places to work'' as those that provide:

- Medical expenses including eye tests
- Pension plans
- Maternity leave
- Help with children's day care
- Recreation facilities such as exercise center, swimming pool

And just as important, say the workers surveyed, is good internal communication demonstrated by:

- In-house newsletter
- Formal job postings
- Employee suggestion systems
- Formal grievance procedures
- Access to top management
- Clear policies on layoffs and dismissals
- Fair pay policies

How does St. Mary's shape up on the above? Excellently, even to a swimming pool, plus tennis courts, running track, picnic spots, green space—blessed as we are with tree-studded grounds to share with our students.

On only one of those items does St. Mary's fall short: help with children's day care. It's a tough issue, largely because of the high cost, and one that has become a hot topic with politicians, well aware that over half the work force is now comprised of women, 20 million of whom are mothers with children under 18. That's double the number since 1970.

As director of personnel, I know that day care for children is one of the most frequent issues raised by St. Mary's women employees.

In the '70s, St. Mary's did offer day care to the public and to St. Mary's parents for the lowest fees possible to keep the service solvent. Primarily for training students majoring in early childhood development, the facility was housed in the Marianist sisters' property near the campus. But as costs rose, the center became a liability and had to be abandoned.

Our progress in helping parents in different ways has included hosting a course on parenting, the cost being underwritten by a grant. The 30 St. Mary's mothers and fathers who signed up were allowed one hour off work to attend the oncampus course, the first time the university had offered "releasetime" privileges for parents. Evaluations by seven parents emphasized that because of family responsibilities after working hours, they would not have been able to attend the course without time off from work.

Reponses to our survey on other programs employees are interested in include seminars on investing, employee motivation, coping with stress, physical conditioning and buying insurance. Already employees may consult on campus with university-authorized financial planners and insurance representatives.

The success of any employee program does, however, depend on strong staff support. When attendance is low, the administration becomes discouraged, and concludes that offerings are a waste of time and effort. For example, attendance is frequently disappointing at open enrollment presentations by representatives of our subsidized medical plans. This happens not only at St. Mary's—it applies at most work places. Yet the employees who do not attend are the very ones who complain about lack of information on medical plans. "We were too busy to come." "Our supervisors don't like us leaving the office." are among reasons given. Perhaps we need to better educate supervisors on employees' urgent needs, emphasizing that privileges do pay off in developing contented workers.

One of the greatest fringe benefits St. Mary's employees enjoy is opportunity for their own and their family's higher education—an item that can add up to immense savings in a family's budget.

After six months' service, eligible university members may enroll without charge in six hours of undergraduate courses or three hours of graduate courses per semester, a benefit that has resulted in degrees and job promotions for many an employee and has surely tended to curtail staff turnover. Based on a sliding scale of a parent's length of service, dependent children of employees are eligible for reductions in tuition. If no dependent children avail themselves of this benefit, an employee's spouse may be eligible for the same reduction.

As well, with expenses paid by the state, St. Mary's offers on-campus G.E.D. instruction free of charge. The invitation to the public includes St. Mary's employees, who may be given "release time" from work with supervisors' approval. Is St. Mary's a great place to work? Some say yes and some will disagree. We know we can improve, and we intend to do so with the help of our administrators and democratically constituted Personnel Advisory Council and Faculty Senate. I believe we can honestly say we have much to offer our employees. St. Mary's is a great place to work.

Before her 1985 appointment as St. Mary's director of personnel, Mary Braley was director of personnel at Assumption College, Worcester, Mass.

During that time she served as treasurer of the Southern New England Chapter of the national College and University Personnel Association (CUPA). She is currently a member of CUPA and the San Antonio Chapter of the Personnel and Management Association.

FALL ENROLLMENT

The St. Mary's fall enrollment of 3,840 is the highest in 15 years. The freshman class of 489 students is the largest in seven years.

Undergraduate enrollment increased by more than 7 percent and graduate student enrollment by 24 percent. Law school enrollment is intentionally limited to approximately 650 students.

Total enrollment, 9 percent above last year, comprises 2,491 undergraduate students, 694 graduate students and 655 law students.

New Degree

The new Bachelor of Science degree in biochemistry is designed to meet the needs of students considering health careers.

The new program will emphasize the biochemical and clinical applications of physical and analytical chemistry.

The curriculum aims to bridge the gap between biology and chemistry by offering courses taught by both chemistry and biology specialists.

Robert Howe

Acting Dean

Robert C. Howe, associate dean of the School of Business and Administration, was named acting dean of the school. He succeeds Dr. James Robertson, who accepted a position at the University of Portland, Ore.

Howe is a long-term associate professor of marketing management. He joined the St. Mary's faculty in 1974 and served as acting dean of the business school from 1977-79.

The university is conducting a search to seek candidates for a permanent dean of the business school.

Red Mass Homilist

Well-known Jesuit priest and former U.S. Congressman Robert F. Drinan, now at Georgetown University, gave the homily at the annual St. Mary's Red Mass in San Fernando Cathedral. Archbishop Patrick Flores was the principal celebrant. Distinguished guests included judges, state senators and city leaders.

The Mass commemorates an old English ceremony during which priests and judges in red robes asked blessing for the annual opening of Parliament, the courts and universities. The event is jointly sponsored by the School of Law and the San Antonio Catholic Lawyers' Guild.

Federal Grant

St. Mary's University has been awarded a federal grant of $600,000 to fund five separate programs. The grant is designed to: 1. develop a degree in manufacturing engineering; 2. ensure that all students achieve writing proficiency; 3. intensify the summer preparation program for incoming freshmen; 4. improve academic and career advising; and 5. develop a formal evaluation program to accurately reflect student and institutional performance.

Help for Minorities

The University of Texas Health Science Center at San Antonio received a federal grant of $346,133 as refunding to help prepare St. Mary's minority students for admission to medical and dental schools.

Students receiving summer stipends under the Health Careers Opportunity Program spend their first two summers at St. Mary's for intense training in premedical and predental subjects.

The Association of American Medical Colleges reports that St. Mary's University was second in the nation in supplying Mexican-American applicants to the entering classes of 1986. Since the original HCOP grant of $384,531 in 1984, about 40 St. Mary's premedical and predental students have participated in the program.

Negri Bequest

The Rev. Louis M. Reile, S.M., professor of cinema arts and longtime friend of film star Pola Negri, will establish the Pola Negri Center for Film Studies at St. Mary's.

Negri, who died in August at age 84, bequeathed a number of her personal records and career memorabilia to St. Mary's.

She also requested that her framed documents and scrapbooks be displayed by the university. She provided an additional $4,000 to preserve and secure the objects.

Frank Herrera Jr.

Honored Alum

The St. Mary's University Law Alumni Association honored local attorney Frank Herrera Jr. as the Distinguished Alumnus of 1988 at the association's annual banquet. Association president Margaret Maisel presented Herrera with the award.

Herrera obtained his law degree from St. Mary's in 1967, as well as his bachelor's degree three years earlier. He is a member of the St. Mary's University Alumni Association board of directors.

Brother Ed Violett

Vocation Service

The Society of Mary Province of St. Louis has established the Marianist Vocation Service at St. Mary's University. Brother Ed Violett, director of the office, will coordinate the vocation effort for the Marianists in the Southwest area of Texas, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Arkansas and Louisiana.

Available services include vocation information, retreats and awareness presentations for men and women considering religious life.

The service began officially with an open house and blessing of the Vocation Office by the Rev. Joseph Uvietta, S.M., St. Mary's chancellor and Society of Mary provincial.

Mary's University

PRESIDENT'S REPORT

he academic year ending May 31, 1987, marked St. Mary's 64th year of higher education. There have been many changes over these years — and this past year has been no exception. Let me note a few of the highlights.

Student enrollment continued to grow to a total enrollment of 3,560 in fall 1986 — our highest in more than 10 years. We registered 438 freshmen, the largest class since 1980, and also enrolled the largest number of transfer students in recent years. Most remarkable was the growth in graduate students: a 10 percent increase in students and 13 percent increase in credit hours over 1985-86.

Our residence halls were filled to capacity with 1,041 students in fall 1986, justifying construction of another hall by the fall of 1987, named for Archbishop Patrick Flores.

Academics

The vitality of an educational institution depends on its ability to adapt to new needs. This past year two new graduate theology programs were introduced, as well as an undergraduate program in pastoral music. Two new graduate programs in engineering were begun, plus an undergraduate program in biochemistry.

Notable academic events included the School of Business and Administration's research program on "Women in Texas Business" in conjunction with a highly successful annual Business Week. Brother Paul Goelz, director of the school's Algur H. Meadows Center, coordinated a very successful series of forums on entrepreneurship.

In the School of Humanities and Social Sciences the Rev. Charles Miller was appointed dean. Humanities enrollment grew especially in psychology, education and English communication arts.

The School of Law hosted the American Bar Association re-accreditation team in the summer of 1986 and sponsored a successful summer pilot program at Innsbruck, Austria, to give students in good standing an opportunity to broaden their international legal knowledge. A second Innsbruck program followed in summer '87.

School of Science, Engineering and Technology. At the close of 1986 the federal government renewed funding at $346,000 for our Health Careers Opportunity Program coordinated with the University of Texas Health Science Center. Also during the year, the dean, Dr. Anthony Kaufmann, established an advisory council for the school.

Our Graduate School showed dramatic increases from 572 students in 1985 to 629 in 1986, and from 8,300 credit hours to 9,400. Faculty members spent considerable time during the year on studying the role and future direction of graduate studies.

Students

Students are the primary concern of any university. At St. Mary's that concern includes not only intellectual life, but also physical and social well-being. This past year we inaugurated a Freshman Leadership Program for students to attend workshops that encourage motivation, creativity, leadership, communication, etc. The result: 80 percent of those taking part assumed campus leadership positions throughout the year and increasing numbers of students became involved in Campus Ministry activities such as retreats, blood drives, repairing homes of disadvantaged families, etc.

Alumni

St. Mary's Alumni Association was again very active. Highlight of the year was the Oyster Bake — the most successful in our history, with an estimated attendance of 38,000. As a result, the Alumni Association presented the university with $180,000 for scholarships and financial aid programs. To our loyal and hard working alumni my sincere thanks for their great efforts and generosity.

1986-87 President's Report

Athletics

Our teams had a great season. The men's baseball team won the Big State Conference and District IV title. The men's basketball Rattlers made it to Kansas City for the NAIA national championships, and the women's softball team, NAIA national champions the previous year, again went to the national tournament where they tied for fifth place. Our basketball team defeated UTSA 68-55 in the Mayor's Challenge Cup. Sincerest congratulations to our coaches, trainers and players.

High Points

Space does not permit mention of our many events and activities but here for example are some high points: law students achieved first place in 1986 State Moot Court Competition and second place in the 1986 Association of Trial Lawyers of America Regional Mock Trial Competition; the remarkable record of two out of three premed applicants accepted by medical schools. Our prelaw students enjoy similar success.

Faculty

Before closing, I want to welcome new people to the St. Mary's family and congratulate others on their achievements. Father Joseph Uvietta, S.M. (BA '52), is our new chancellor, succeeding Father David Fleming, S.M. Frank Molek is our new vice president of University Relations. New members of our board of trustees are Brother Bernard Ploeger, S.M.; Brother Peter Pontolillo, S.M.; the Rev. John Moder, S.M.; Pedro Viyao; Nelson Wolff; Barbara Benavides; James Koett; Robert Mason and Ron Bird.

At the Spring Faculty Appreciation Dinner hosted by our Alumni Association, faculty members honored were Dr. Melba Hutsell; the Rev. John Rechtien, S.M.; Dr. Marian Schultz; Dr. Homer Fetzer; the Rev. Charles Neumann, S.M.; Dr. Charles Cotrell; William Francisco; Charles Cantu; the Rev. Charles Blasen, S.M.; Dr. George Benz; Paul Ferguson and Dr. Samuel Thompson. The list of awards and accomplishments of our faculty and personnel could scroll through several more pages. To all, I say thank you for another successful year at St. Mary's. I look ahead with confidence to the 1987-88 academic year in which we will continue to strive for excellence. I thank the Lord for blessings in this past academic year and ask His blessings in the new one!

Sincerely, Per John a. Leies, S.M. Rev. John A. Leies, S.M. President

Financial Report

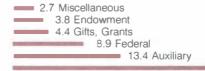

In the year ending May 31, 1987, internal fiscal controls continued to be strengthened.

As a result of these and other improved management practices, the unrestricted current fund showed an increase of $115,290 on operating revenues of approximately $25.8 million.

As is traditional, tuition and fees comprised approximately 67% of the university's operating revenues. Faculty and supporting staff salaries and benefits, and general educational activities accounted for more than 82% of the university's expenditures.

The school's endowment reached $12.6 million and the value of the campus buildings and plant more than $56 million.

DISTINGUISHED ALUMNUS NAMED

Military Leader Comes Home

Lt. Gen. William H. Schneider (BBA '55),

commander of the Fifth

U.S. Army, Fort Sam Houston, San Antonio, has been selected by the Alumni Association as the university's Distinguished Alumnus of 1988.

He will be honored at a dinner in February.

Schneider assumed command of the Fifth Army on May 29, 1987.

A native of San Antonio, he is a 1951 graduate of Central Catholic Marianist High School.

As a student in the ROTC program at St. Mary's, Schneider was named a Distinguished Military Graduate. He was commissioned a second lieutenant in the field artillery. His further education included a master's degree in industrial personnel management from George Washington University in 1970.

After graduating from St. Mary's with a degree in business economics, Schneider first served as an instructor at the Army Air Defense School, then in Greenland, Fort Lewis and Fort Bliss. Overseas duty took him to Hawaii in 1964 and Vietnam in 1965.

Returning stateside in 1967, his various assignments included chief of the Training Division, Operations and Training Office, Fort Sill, Okla., and assistant executive officer to the deputy chief of staff for plans and operations at the Pentagon.

His travels in the '70s included service at Fort Hood, Texas; command of the 25th Infantry Division Artillery in Hawaii; a Pentagon appointment as director of Special Inspections for Army Nuclear Matters in the Office of the Inspector General; and chief of staff with the Army Material Command.

Returning to Hawaii for a tour of duty in 1982, Schneider rose to deputy commander-in-chief and chief of staff, U.S. Pacific Command. His decorations include Defense Distinguished Service Medal; Legion of Merit (with Oak Leaf Cluster); three Air Medal awards; and the Army Commendation Medal (with Oak Leaf Cluster).

NEW PROGRAMS FOR ALUMS

Imagine. For just a few minutes put yourself back at St. Mary's—studying for midterms, chanting at Rattler games, philosophizing with friends in the Pecan Grove, and greasing bodies during Greek Week.

Those memories become more vivid when alumni return to campus for Homecoming Oyster Bake each spring. But this year the Alumni Association is introducing new programs which will give graduates two more reasons to return.

Academic Affairs

St. Mary's has some very impressive sages right on campus. The Alumni Association is initiating a speakers' program which will tap these resources. The idea is to invite alumni to return to the classroom (some look much better than you may remember!) to hear faculty speak on contemporary issues.

Student/Alumni Relations

Students should feel good about St. Mary's and feel good about being alumni one day. The newly established mentor program matches students with alumni professionals, providing both groups opportunities to share ideas and to experience each other's worlds. Students may spend a day in the workplace and alumni may come back to campus for a day in school. Activities are left to the decision of each mentor/student pair.

by Diane Abdo Noll (B.A. '72) President, Alumni Association

Your Alumni Association is active and moving.

The scholarship endowment has swelled to $600,000 (thanks to successful Fiesta Oyster Bakes); and annual programs honoring faculty, athletes and community leaders keep St. Mary's alumni in the spotlight.

There is no need for your memories to fade. The Alumni Association's new programs provide additional opportunities for you to come back to campus—back to good friends, back to good teachers, and back to a campus that feels like home.

Expanding Recruiting Horizons

Associate Director, Admissions

by Candace Kuebker

f It's Tuesday,
This Must Be Belgium."

I remember a movie in the late '60s that chronicled the exploits of a naive and unsuspecting group of travelers on a European package tour. Viewing it at the age of 13, I remember thinking that although hilarious, it obviously exaggerated the pitfalls and disorientation one encounters traveling en masse in foreign lands. I still believed that the day I embarked on the European Council of International Schools (ECIS) recruiting tour. Now I know better.

I modestly call myself a seasoned traveler. With over 10 years admissions experience at St. Mary's, I've spent endless weeks in metropolitan areas and small towns (many of which I'm trying to forget), searching out high schools for that one student who may indeed be "St. Mary's material." I can read a map at 55 m.p.h., one eye scanning the horizon for stadium lights. I've read Dane Keene's The Traveling Woman and I'm adept at building a three-week wardrobe around a skirt, two blouses, four scarves and a pair of earrings. I must admit, however, that those hard-earned skills didn't help much on my travels to 13 college programs in Europe in 10 working days. Even the "If-It's-Tuesday..." people had two weeks!

You're probably asking yourself, "Why on earth is St. Mary's participating in college recruiting in Europe?" Here are several important reasons why we in the Office of Undergraduate Admissions are exploring territories outside our traditional boundaries.

- ► The number of high school graduates nationwide will decrease 15-20 percent between 1980 and 1992.
- Conversely, the number of international students seeking postsecondary education in the United States is on the rise and will continue to increase dramatically through this century.
- St. Mary's reputation, location and unique value-centered approach to education make us attractive to these students, many of whom desire a close-knit, family-oriented environment in which to pursue their studies.
- ▶ We at St. Mary's strive to attract a broad cross-section of students from international origins who can benefit from our educational opportunities while adding a special, diverse dimension to our student population.

▶ Building bridges between nations is a very real and important concept at all levels and what better way to start than by having our own students, representing varied cultural, ethnic, economic and academic backgrounds, learn from one another.

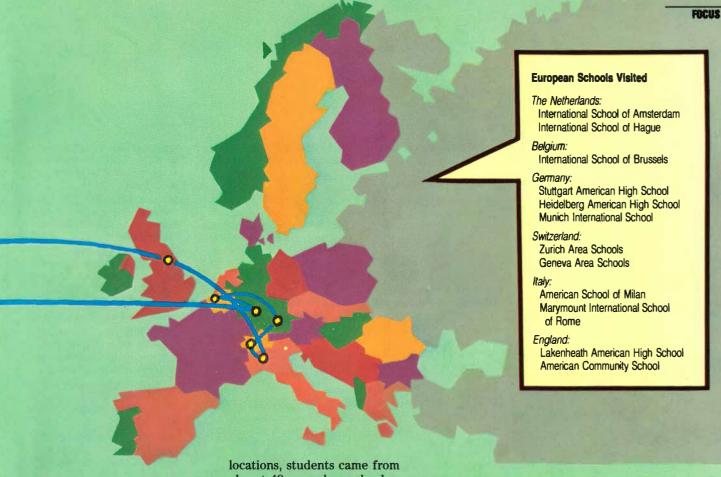

So, with these reasons in mind, the European Council of International Schools tour is an ideal point from which to start.

Our tour group included representatives from 27 colleges and universities ranging in size from 400 to over 17,000 students. St. Mary's was the only Texas school to participate among the 15 states represented.

The tour covered the Netherlands, Belgium (on Tuesday?), Germany, Switzerland, Italy and England. A typical day began at 5:30 a.m., with luggage ready at 6:30 a.m., at which time we had the option of partaking of a leisurely (15 to 20 minute) "continental breakfast." If those two words invoke images other than a hard roll and coffee, you've been sadly misled.

Once a program was completed, we could plan on anything from a one-hour bus ride to an eight-hour train ride to our next destination.

Each program at various American and international schools lasted two to three hours. They began with a general orientation session for all students and parents. A description of our group and program was given, followed by a 15-minute slide show highlighting the colleges and universities present. A special brochure describing each school was distributed. We set up our information tables in cafeterias or gymnasiums, and for a couple of hours, parents and students could browse, talk with us about specific interests, and pick up our publications.

I saw an average of 20 students and parents at each session. Not knowing exactly what to expect (and having spent many a lonely college program in the U.S. reading my and everyone else's brochures), I was pleasantly surprised, not only at the number of interested students, but also at the quality of their academic preparation. Most students in Europe pursue one of three programs: a traditional American high school program; a curriculum leading to the British General Education Certificate (GCE); or the International Baccalaureate (IB) program. Their preparation ranged in quality from good to exceptional.

The students I visited with were as diverse as their varied academic backgrounds and origins. Although our programs were held in only 13 locations, students came from almost 40 secondary schools, some traveling as many as six hours to visit with our group.

The American students I saw had come to Europe from all over the United States. Many whose families were in military service had lived in or around San Antonio at some time and were already familiar with St. Mary's. Others, like a young exchange student from McAllen I met in Geneva, were just plain excited to see someone from home. Several of various nationalities were the children of diplomats who travel extensively. Virtually every student I met was proficient in English and some spoke half a dozen languages or more.

The next couple of years will determine our success in recruiting international students from Europe. Our admissions efforts have also expanded to include South America and, this year, the Far East. Though the ECIS trip (and others like it) are grueling and fast-paced, I believe there are many qualified, young international students out there who can and will benefit from the St. Mary's educational experience. Perhaps more important, we can learn from their fascinating cultures and vastly different experiences. A bond with the international community is imperative in this day and age and is, indeed, part of the mission of St. Mary's University.

Candace J. Kuebker (B.A. '78) has been a member of the admissions staff since 1977. Now associate director of the department, her territory for recruiting undergraduates covers Europe, Arizona, New Mexico, Colorado, Wisconsin, Illinois and the East Coast and Mid-Atlantic states. As well, she is responsible for recruiting at 10 San Antonio high schools. Also alumni of St. Mary's are her brothers, Craig (B.S. '77), an Air Force physician, and David (B.B.A. '87).

Fall 1987 Corrections

Who is She?

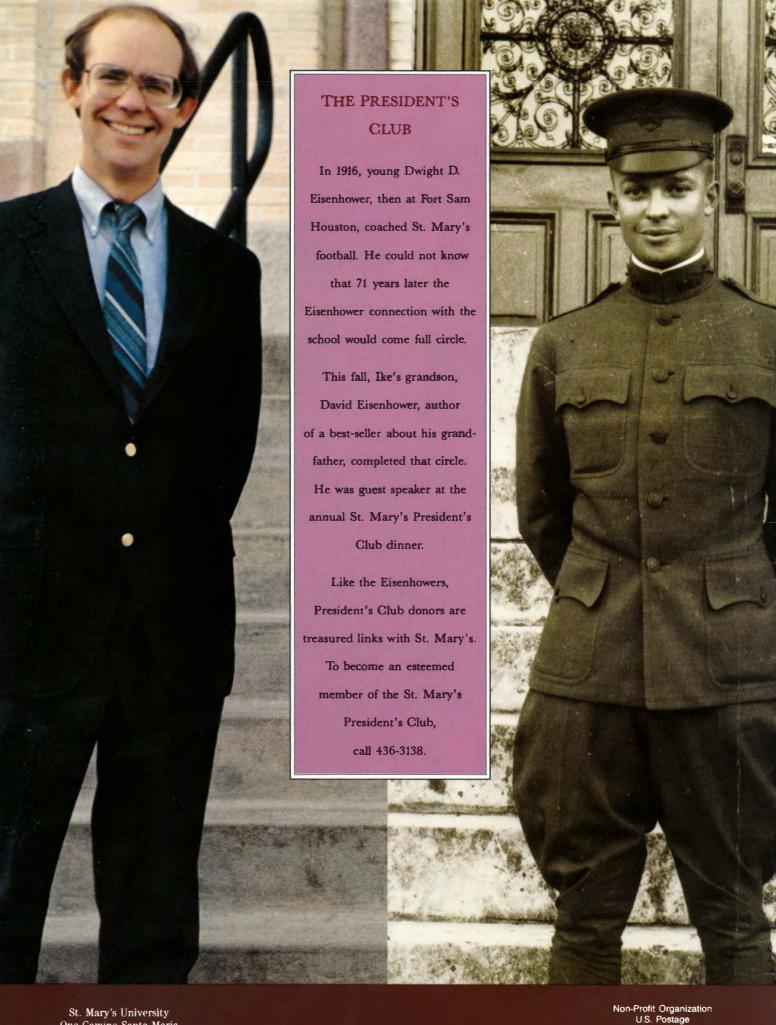

The Homecoming photo page in the 1987 Spring/Summer Gold & Blue incorrectly identified a woman at the Mass as Jane Busby. Can anyone identify the "mystery woman"?

Malcolm Kirkland (MBA '72) received his degree in 1972, not in 1971 as listed.

Joe Pina (BA '75), San Antonio, was surprised to read in Class Notes that he is a former judge. He is a municipal court judge for the City of San Antonio.

Classnotes Guidelines

- 1. Individuals must be graduates or have attended St. Mary's University.
- 2. Good quality black and white portrait photographs are welcomed.
- Announcements regarding weddings, births, etc. will not be printed until after the event has occurred.
- Candidates for political office will not receive coverage until election results are known.
- 5. Class year is determined by the calendar year of graduation. If more than one degree has been earned from St. Mary's, each will be listed.
- 6. Tributes are printed about deceased alumni. The information is deemed accurate if the source is a family member or printed media.
- 7. The editor reserves the right to edit information submitted.
